

GAYVE

MAN

Conceived By Michael Oleson
Written by Mike Oleson and Leslie Brockett

Registration #:
Writers Guild of America 149784

TITLE: Cave Man

FORMAT:30 minute Lifestyle decorating show

REG: Writers Guild of America # 1497843

AUTHOR NAME: Michael Olesen

LOGLINE: Superman has one, Batman's is judged to be the ultimate one, and every man lusts for his very own. Every week, 'Cave Man' ensures that some will get the mancave of their dreams.

OUR TEAM:

The Host: He is a quirky outgoing geeky type guy with a full understanding of a mans geek and gadget side. He loves electronics and video games.

The DIY Carpenter: He is a mans' man who can custom build anything your imagination can dream up . Think: fitted tank, tan surfer look, he can do anything with his tools.

The Bargain hunter: Freegan Dave drives around Los Angeles in a beat up pick up truck looking for free stuff. He scours for cool discarded items that will enhance any cave.

Treatment:

Most women have substantial say over the design of the house, but there is usually one place the man holds sacred. Be it the garage or a tool shed, his wife has no say about what gets "mounted on those walls".

Our team arrives at the unsuspecting couple's home to decorate one room. They consult with both the husband and the wife leading her to believe that she has some say. That room will remain secret for now but the audience always knows... this lucky guy will get the ultimate "MANCAVE". This space will be decorated to his liking and will be personalized to the extreme.

As we go through the tour of the house and find his "space" the design team will announce that they have found the perfect space to redesign and redecorate.

In comes a kings throne where the lucky guy gets interviewed. He expresses all his wants and desires, his likes and dislikes, and dreams up his fantasy man cave.

Our design team gets to work. They consult with professionals about various delights ranging from sound systems to game rooms. They start to draw out the plans.

Phase 2: Back at the house, the wife is sent to the spa while a team has started the construction and decorating. Snags and snafus ensue. Freegan Dave heads out on his bargain hunting mission. And our host sees that everything is being done according to plan. The show ends with a great reveal with his friends and a special guest in attendance.

Show Intro

Episode Intro

Host Interview: He explains the concept.

We pick a house where husband and wife have been married for a long time. We sit down for interviews and reveal that we will pick one room to “professionally decorate”. We take a tour of the house to see which room it will be, once we get to the man’s space we inform the lucky couple that this is the room we will decorate. (It will always be the one room in the house that the man has deemed as his own.)

Lead out to Commercial

Lead in from Commercial

We return and the wife finds out that we are here for him.

We inform them we will give them a little “man lift” to the place.

The man reacts, the wife reacts.

A couple of beauties roll out a throne for the man .

While being fanned with palm leaves by two beauties, each member of our design team sits with the man to discuss what his vision is for the room.

He tells our Manly Carpenter what kind of tools and storage he wants.

He tells our Tech host his quintessential electronic desires.

He tells our Freegan Dave all his quirks, hobbies and preferences.

For inspiration the team checks out some already designed man caves, and talks to the designers that have done them. They begin. They design, they argue, they design. They come up with the final plan.

Lead out to Commercial

Lead in from Commercial

Host:

“Ok, we have come up with an amazing design. Let the building begin. But first, so “Bob’s” wife doesn’t panic, lets send her off to the spa for the day.”

Wife leaves.

Carpenter pulls up.

Host:

“Looks like the carpenter decided to bring some help.”

6 scantily clad beauties come out of his truck. Its his building team!

The man sits in the throne and watches the beauties clean out the garage while drinking a “sponsored” beer.

Montage: The ladies clean out the garage.
Host checks in with Freegan Dave, Dave happens to be in a dumpster when his phone rings, he answers it.
Host and Dave chat about all the cool things Dave is finding.

Lead out to commercial
Lead in from Commercial

Carpenter begins his build, with the help of the ladies.
Delivery trucks begins to drop stuff off for the decorator.
Freegan Dave pulls up to large game store, and sees a poker table and chairs.
He gets an idea.
Tech guy calls his electronic contacts for his electronics he needs for this design.
They build, they paint, the Furniture comes in, the electronics are installed.
Project completed!

Host:
"Now this mancave has a real manliness about it!
Any comic book hero or straight to DVD action hero would be proud."

Freegan Dave pulls up in his crappy pick up with a WTP Poker star in the passenger seat. i.e. Dainel nagraeu.
They unload the professional poker table and chairs, and bring them into the garage.
Six of the man's buddies show up to ooo and ahh over the new mancave and enjoy a game of poker with the pro.

The hosts stand out in the garage admiring the work they just did. As the garage door closes we hear the man say " When did my wife say she would be back?"

Host:
"Join us next week where we turn a tool shed into a supreme screening room."